Western Digital Corporation
Third Quarter Fiscal Year 2016
Conference Call Remarks
April 28, 2016

Olivier Leonetti
Executive Vice President &
Chief Financial Officer

Thank you, Steve.

Our revenue for the March quarter was two point eight ($2.8) billion dollars.

We shipped a total of forty three point one (43.1) million hard drives at an average selling price of sixty ($60) dollars.

Our non-GAAP gross margin was twenty eight point one (28.1%) percent and operating expenses totaled four hundred and seventy seven ($477) million dollars.

Non-GAAP tax expense for the March quarter was twenty six ($26) million dollars, or eight percent (8%) of non-GAAP pre-tax income.

On a non GAAP basis, net income was two hundred and eighty three ($283) million dollars, or one dollar and twenty one cents ($1.21) per share.

In the March quarter we generated four hundred and eighty five ($485) million dollars in cash from operations and our free cash flow totaled three hundred and fifty two ($352) million dollars.

Our CAPEX totaled one hundred and thirty three ($133) million dollars or five percent (5%) of revenue.

We also declared a dividend in the amount of fifty cents ($0.50) per share.

We closed the quarter with total cash and cash equivalents of five point nine ($5.9) billion dollars, of which approximately four hundred ($400) million dollars was held in the U.S.

I will now provide an update on cost savings initiatives as a result of the integration of our WD and HGST subsidiaries. This information is also provided in our quarterly fact sheet posted on our website. All my references in the following commentary are based on calendar years.

As a reminder, we provided our initial estimates on these savings on our last earnings conference call in late January. Based on our ongoing integration activity, we are revising our associated savings and cost estimates.

We now expect to achieve total savings of eight hundred ($800) million dollars on an annualized run rate basis by the end of 2017, versus the six hundred and fifty ($650) million dollars estimated previously.

Specifically, savings from operating expenses are now expected to be four hundred and fifty ($450) million dollars on an annualized run rate basis, of which two thirds will occur by the end of 2016 and the balance by the end of 2017. This will result in a new opex run rate of four hundred and sixty ($460) million dollars per quarter exiting 2017. This compares with our earlier estimate of four hundred ($400) million dollars opex savings, with a fifty-fifty (50/50) split between the two years, and a run rate of four hundred and seventy ($470) million dollars per quarter exiting 2017.

For cost of goods sold, we now expect to achieve three hundred and fifty ($350) million dollars of savings on an annualized run rate basis, of which fifty percent (50%) will occur by the end of 2016 and the balance by the end of 2017. This compares with our earlier estimate of two hundred and fifty ($250) million dollars of annualized run rate savings by the end of 2017 with a fifty-fifty (50/50) split between the two years. As a reminder, these savings will provide us with the opportunity to consistently operate in the top half of our existing gross margin model of twenty seven percent (27%) to thirty two percent (32%).

We continue to estimate cash expense to achieve these savings to be approximately eight hundred ($800) million dollars. We now expect sixty percent (60%) of these expenses to be incurred in 2016 and the balance in 2017. This timing compares with our earlier estimate of seventy five percent (75%) being incurred in 2016 and the balance in 2017.

Moving on to our guidance for the June quarter:

We expect:

- Revenue to be in the range of two point six ($2.6) billion dollars to two point seven ($2.7) billion dollars.

On a non-GAAP basis, we expect:

- Gross margin percentage to be up from our March quarter
- Operating expenses of approximately four hundred and seventy five ($475) million dollars
- Excluding the impact due to the interest expense from debt financing related to the SanDisk acquisition, we estimate non-GAAP earnings per share between one dollar ($1.00) and one dollar and ten cents ($1.10).

As Steve mentioned, we look forward to providing you with an update of today's standalone guidance to reflect the anticipated partial period of ownership of SanDisk in the June quarter. Operator, we are now ready to open the call for questions.
